Announcing Yayasan Bali Institut Global!

June + July News

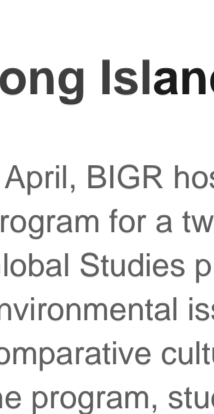

The Bali Institute for Global Renewal is proud to announce the establishment of our NEW Indonesian Foundation, Yayasan Bali Institut Global.

With our new foundation, we aim to promote and support global educational opportunities for Balinese youth and local villagers who can benefit from the Bali Institute programs and offerings being delivered every year in Bali. It has been granted official recognition by the Indonesian Ministry of Justice, and plans are being explored to develop special programs and fundraising opportunities for scholarships and cross-cultural education.

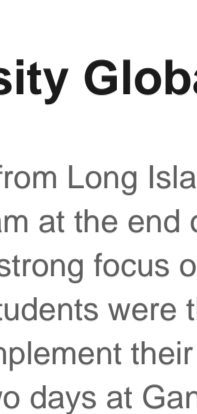

A recent meeting between Yayasan Bali Institut Global and the Mayor of Gianyar regency to discuss future opportunities for youth involvement around environmental and sustainability issues.

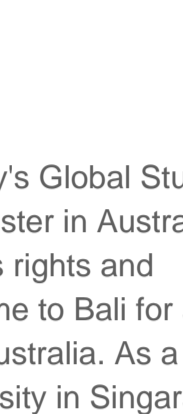

Bali Institute is thrilled to have a talented and passionate team on the board of our Yayasan, all of whom are dedicated to creating exciting opportunities for Balinese youth.

Program Snapshots

Long Island University Global 2015

In April, BIGR hosted students from Long Island University's Global Studies Program for a two week program at the end of their semester in Australia. The Global Studies program has a strong focus on indigenous rights and environmental issues, so the students were thrilled to come to Bali for a comparative culture unit to complement their studies in Australia. As a part of the program, students spent two days at Ganesha University in Singaraja working in small groups with local Balinese students to understand some of Bali's most pressing environmental and social issues and work together propose creative solutions. The issues ranged from water shortages and land development to pesticide use and plastic pollution.

University of San Diego

Students from the University of San Diego spent two weeks with us for an intensive program on Advanced Diagnosis and Treatment Planning. During their trip, these graduate students visited healers to understand their approach to trauma treatment, participated in two seminars at Udayana University in Denpasar, and met with several NGOs and organizations that work to understand and address trauma in ways that make sense within the Balinese culture.

Dominican University Faculty Program

In May BIGR also hosted 5 wonderful faculty and administrators from Dominican University for a special program on best practices for study abroad experiences. Bali Institute founder, Marcia Jaffe, joined the program to share secrets of success in creating experiences that inspire deep learning and cross-cultural collaboration among students during international experiences. The faculty were able to experience many of the activities designed for our student programs in order to learn about Bali and to dream up new ideas for programs they can offer to their students in collaboration with BIGR in the future.

Global Leadership Adventures 2015!

The Bali Institute will once again be partnering with Global Leadership Adventures this summer to create programs for high school students from around the world that offer a unique blend of cultural immersion, volunteering and exploration in a local community. This is the fourth summer BIGR has partnered with Global Leadership Adventures to provide numerous summer sessions for high-achieving high school students.

Participants in Global Leadership Adventures will inspire Balinese children by creating fun and engaging English teaching games and activities at schools in Balinese villages, while also getting endless opportunities to explore the Balinese culture, landscape, and so much more.
